If Surgery has ever helped you...

Now will you help Surgery?

At sometime you, or someone close to you, is likely to benefit from the highest standards of surgery in the world. Such standards have long been maintained through the work undertaken by this independent body — and it is vital to ensure that standards will never be lowered. The work of this College is to a great extent financed by donations, covenants and legacies.

Post-graduate training programmes and rigorous examinations for surgical qualifications are set and controlled by the College, which is also pursuing promising research in such fields as anaesthesia, arthritis, birth defects, blindness, cancer, dental caries, organ transplantation and thrombosis.

The future of surgery in Britain largely depends on the future finances of the College. Few investments can be more worthwhile. Your gifts, covenants, legacies or enquiries will be gladly received by the Appeal Secretary, Royal College of Surgeons of England, Lincoln's Inn Fields, London, WC2A 3PN.

just up their street

When advising your clients concerning their wills will you please bring to their attention the claims of the Methodist Ministers Housing Society.

Up their street, or down their way, there is more than likely the kind of property that this Housing Society endeavours to provide for Methodist Ministers, or their widows, to rent during their retirement. The fact that nearly 400 houses, flats or bungalows have been purchased by, given or bequeathed to the Society shows how the imagination of generous people has been caught by this method of providing suitable and attractive accommodation for supernumerary Ministers at rents which they are able to afford.

Your help will be greatly appreciated and valued by those who have given life-long service to the Church. Every penny given goes towards the provision of further homes for the supernumeraries and widows.

D. G. Haines F.C.A., Secretary,

Shakespeare or John Wesley?

Why, then the world's mine oyster, which I with sword will open
(Merry Wives of Windsor)

John Wesley put it differently —

"the world is my parish"

And his weapons were very different. The Methodist Missionary Society, inheritor of John Wesley's world concept, shares with overseas Christians in 30 nations and states in reconciliation, evangelism, service to the handicapped, rural medicine and many other pioneering activities. As its map widens, the corresponding pressure on finance is always increasing. Inflation in the U.K. is bad enough, overseas it is much worse. Please ask your clients to help us when they are making bequests.

BOUND VOLUME SERVICE

This service is in addition to the binding service so many Subscribers use annually and is not a substitute for it.

Currently, Subscribers return their weekly parts to our Binding Department at Oxford on receipt of the 'call-in' notice attached to this Index. The problems this may involve are well-known to us, but this service will continue.

The BOUND VOLUME SERVICE should you take advantage of it, would mean that no longer would it be necessary for Subscribers to return the weekly issues to us, but that, on receipt of their standing order (Order Form below), bound volumes would be sent as soon as the volume (with the publication of the Index) is completed, and the binding operation finished, without any further effort or action on your part.

In addition the advantages of the service are many:

Subscribers would not have to collect and arrange for the despatch of their weekly issues; you would never therefore be without your copy of last year's volume of the J.P.; although we have always been mindful of the "binding time", in that it may take at the most, up to 12 weeks before your volume is returned to you, it is unlikely that this time can be reduced and in the future more likely to increase; while enormous and extreme care is taken to return to the sender the same volume sent in, and this is normally the case, should you have marked up your parts in some way this would be lost to you if, in extreme circumstances, an incorrect volume was returned to you or that it was lost in transit.

YOU RECEIVE YOUR BOUND VOLUME MUCH EARLIER IN THE YEAR in that preparation for its production would be well ahead during the previous few months and, as soon as the Index became available, its completion and despatch to you would be made automatically.

Your existing volume can be forwarded, at your convenience, for separate binding at a time to suit yourself, and can subsequently be used in another office if you should so decide.

If you subscribe to "THE J.P. and L.G.R. REPORTS" and/or "THE WEEKLY LAW DIGEST" you will be pleased to know that the BOUND VOLUME SERVICE is extended to include these two publications.

Details of the cost of the BOUND VOLUME SERVICE for 1976 (which is in addition to your present annual subscription) are given below.

Earlier volumes, going back to Vol. 1, (1837), are available for the most part from stock for subscribers wishing to complete their sets.
